

DONCASTER'S FREE ANARCHIST PAPER

Black flags over Moscow

The black flags have been flying in Russia this month .No, the anarchists haven't suddenly deposed the State capitalists .The man who has held supreme power in the Kremlin for 17 years, Leonid Brezhnev had died .

How does a man reach the top of the tree in a 'communist' society ? He joined the Party when he was 23 and had then risen under Khrushchev's aegis, loyally carrying out his orders (as he had Stalin's) for party purges .He was a shrewd and unsentimental infighter, who cultivated the military until he had worked himself in to a position where he was obvious successor to Khrushchev .

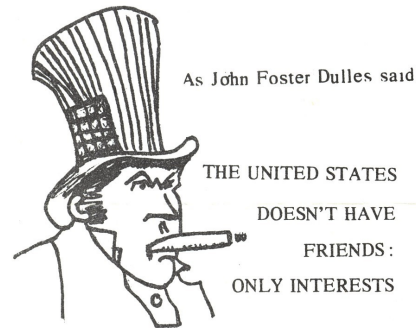

This stalwart of the workers' state (sic) had a love of cars, studiously pampered by foreign powers, to such an extent that he had a Rolls Royce Silver Cloud, a Lincoln Continental, a Chevrolet Impala, a Mercedes 450, a Citroen, Maserati, and a Lancia .So much for equality, but then Russia has now a regular class structure with the usual vested interest and privilege .In fact, what is emerging is a firmly established hereditary ruling class - if your father has a good job then the better are your chances of having a good job .

Now more than when the soviet regime began, the government holds sway over a vast empire and with just as firm a grip .If a country in the soviet sphere of interest swayed from the party line, troops were sent in, and Brezhnev himself was responsible for the occupation of Czechoslovakia in 1968, Afghanistan in 1979, and for the suppression of Solidarity and the military takeover in Poland .

His 'greatest achievement' was to bring the Soviets a nuclear arsenal on a par with Amerika's .To maintain the state a vast military machine now exists .Like all states it is there to protect the ruling regime not the members of the country .Once he had brought the soviet's nuclear capability to this overkill level he called for limitations and peace talks ! Certain members of the left seem to have overlooked his responsibility (albeit a joint responsibility with the leaders of the West) in creating our present precarious situation .

His successor is to be Yuri Andropov (good name for an Islamic fundamentalist), head of the infamous KGB and who was given this post thanks to the military and key members of the Central Committee .Spot the difference ! There is nothing good that I can put in about Brezhnev, and it appears that the state itself found some difficulty, look how long it took them to announce his death .What else could they have waited for other than something good to say, they were waiting for someone to come up with something .

Big, friendly old US of A has once again tried to use its influence and power to protect its interests overseas . The martial law administration in Bangladesh is planning to adopt a new national drugs policy at the end of 1982 which will ban 1,742 of the 4,000 drugs which are on sale at present in that country . This move is to cut down the number of drugs with harmful side-effects or with no therapeutic value . All this sounds good, after all, any cut in drugs supply is a good move, plus, the local companies are to be encouraged to produce drugs with simple formulations like antacids and vitamins . But what got America's back up was that only companies with factories in Bangladesh will be able to sell drugs in the country, and they will have to buy all raw materials from local supplies wherever possible, thus leaving the multinationals, eight of which control 80% of the drug market at present, to fight over the sale of drugs which local firms cannot produce . This, as you may well imagine, has left the pharmaceutical companies a bit peeved . The USA, in response, is reported to be threatening to reconsider a $13.6m aid project .

They tried the same thing in the 60's with Sri Lanka, but the same thing happened there as in Bangladesh in that the martial law administration planned to go ahead hoping that aid would be restored later having given the US no political advantage . So the next time that you hear about the generous west giving aid to poorer countries, think of it as a form of blackmail to be withdrawn if that country does not toe the line . It is also further evidence of the need for the people of the world to gain autonomy over their existence . We are being used by the governments and multinationals like pawns on a chessboard in their power games .

NEWSFLASH NEWSFLASH NEWSFLASH
President Raygun announced his controversial plans for the future of American bases in Britain . He proposes that the entire population of these islands be "moved" to Alaska . A State Department spokesman stated "What the Limies can do on Diego Garcia we can do better in the UK ."

"WHOSOEVER PUTS HIS HAND ON ME TO GOVERN ME IS A USURPER AND A TYRANT, I DECLARE HIM MY ENEMY" :
Pierre Joseph Proudhon .

Congratulations to the Sheffield Women's Print Co-Op, who refused to handle the work of Probation Officers in Sheffield who's newsletter they thought was sexist . This is the sort of action that all workers should be taking . It is the only way to stamp out sexism, racism and militarism, which are insidious within the media in our society . If all workers controlled their places of work there would be more control in the interests of the ordinary people . We look forward to the day when the media carries the truth, without the titillation of naked women and jingoism .

Have you seen the new town centre district plans ? There is a display in the Arndale Centre and you can also get a draft written statement from the display area . The amusing thing about this document, apart from its obvious ploy of 'democracy at work', is the back page which has a heading 'Concil seek to retain quality and character', and beneath it is a photograph of the northern bus station multi-storey car park, the roundabout at the intersection of Trafford Way, Church Way and the North Bridge, and to the left of the photo, part of the Arndale Centre 'Retaining quality and character' ? But less of the frivolity . Some of the most positive ideas are to bring people back into the town centre to live the realisation that the public library and museum are not big enough, so they wish to expand them, and increase in pedestrianised areas . We look forward to seeing these plans implemented . But what else is there ? Well, they want to build more shops, another multi-storey car park, and eventually another if necessary ! May we suggest that the council forget the car parks, and build houses instead ; they could make people park there vehicles on waste ground outside the town, and use public transport through or use their feet ; and instead of more shops, lets face it there are enough shops selling the same kind of rubbish throughout the town without building more, they could have parks, houses, communal centres, in other words, places for people to meet and talk . There is also a suggestion that take-away food services should not flourish, this has its good and bad points . The sort of 'food' they sell is sometimes questionable, but if they aren't there where are we to get a cheap snack ? If it is the rubbish question which perturbs the planners, why not more rubbish bins ? Another thing that would improve the town would be to have more trees and plants throughout the streets which don't have them yet . If the council really are serious about maintaining what character is left, they could ensure that all new buildings on corners are rounded, and that they are not the monotonous grey concrete type such as the Arndale, Binns and Littlewoods, Doncaster's architecture, above shop level is full of character and shows thought and taste which can't be said for the aforementioned buildings ! Lets have towns for the people who live in and use them, not businesses without any interest in them other than profit . Let the council know how you feel about their plans there is a form obtainable from the display in the Arndale, we suggest you use it .

DONCASTER ANARCHIST GROUP CAN BE CONTACTED THROUGH : %BOYA, 49A MARKET PLACE, DONCASTER.

POLICE FILE SCRAPBOOK

More police solve less crime

Soldier raped OUR BRAVE woman, 83, boys in Mark 1. court told

The policeman son of a retired rear admiral ruined his career and "blighted his life" when he made a false statement in a drink-driving case, it was said at the Old Bailey yesterday.

Peter Lucey, 23, of Oldways, Houghton, Sussex, was ordered to complete 200 hours of community service after he admitted attempting to pervert the course of justice.

Mr. Lucey, son of Rear Admiral Martin Lucey, confessed to making a false witness statement when he gave evidence at Bow Street magistrates' court in September last year, said Mr Godfrey Carey, prosecuting, at an earlier hearing.

Mr Carey said that the motorist would have been convicted without Lucey's statement but, after the disclosure that it was false, the magistrate had no alternative but to dismiss the case.

Mr James Badenoch, defending, said that Mr Lucey frankly admitted the falsehood when challenged at the lower court and resigned from the police force.

A man with an impeccable record, when he entered the police force he had had a bright future.

Cleveland police committee yesterday prevented a newspaper from publishing details of a leaked confidential report about internal police disciplinary proceedings after being granted an injunction at the weekend by a High Court judge.

The injunction, served on the Middlesbrough Evening Gazette, stopped the publication of any facts, opinions or material arising from the report of an inquiry into police conduct by the Lancashire Chief Constable, Mr Albert Laugharne. The report had been leaked to the paper.

Mr Laugharne was called in early this year to investigate the way in which Cleveland police carried out an inquiry into the death of a Middlesbrough football fan, Craig French, who was stabbed near Ayresome Park football ground in 1980. Allegations that the initial inquiry was improperly handled had been made by a former Cleveland police superintendent.

Mr Justice Croom-Johnson, sitting in London, ordered the Evening Gazette not to make any copies of the leaked report or pass on information from it to other persons, bodies or publications. The paper was also ordered to return any copies of the report to the Cleveland Chief Constable, Mr Christopher Payne.

A spokesman for the police committee said publication of the report's findings might have interfered with its quasi-judicial duty, breached the confidentiality of witnesses and police informers, and prejudiced the operational activities of Cleveland police force.

Yesterday, the Evening Gazette's legal advisers were still studying the terms of the injunction, but the leaked report had not been surrendered. The editor, Mr David James, said: "It may well be as a result of this that we shall seek to have the injunction lifted—thus enabling us to report freely on matters we believe to be in the public interest."

It is the second time in six weeks that Cleveland police have successfully asked a judge to prevent publication of reports involving the force. Tyne Tees Television was banned from showing a documentary on alleged police corruption in September until it removed certain film sequences.

PC DAVID FORD, 40, "over-reacted" when he was hurt sorting out a disturbance outside an Indian restaurant.

Mr Anthony Lake, 21, was arrested and charged with being drunk and disorderly, and at the police station Ford hit him three times, Manchester city magistrates were told yesterday.

Ford, of Buckingham Road, Chorlton, Manchester, was fined £100 with £25 costs after pleading guilty to assaulting Mr Lake causing him bodily harm in the early hours of New Year's Day.

The Stipendiary magistrate, Mr Derrick Fairclough, accepted that Ford had been provoked and that his self-restraint was affected. "But policemen should know they cannot be permitted to get their own back in the way you did, however great the temptation," he said.

Ford, a constable for 19 years, has been suspended on full pay since last February. He now awaits disciplinary action.

Sir David McNee, the retired Commissioner of the Metropolitan Police, is to join the board of Clydesdale Bank as a non-executive director with a salary of up to £5,000 a year. His role will be to attend board meetings twice a month.

Since leaving Scotland Yard at the beginning of this month, Sir David has been paid £120,000 for his memoirs in the Sunday Mirror and has been negotiating the sale of extracts from his autobiography to the Sunday Times.

A spokesman for Clydesdale Bank, a Scottish subsidiary of the Midland Bank, said Sir David had been offered a seat on the board because of his knowledge.

A hospital inquiry is under way to find out why a 19-year-old youth with a broken back was put in a police cell by officers who thought he was drunk.

But it was later learned that Mr Joseph Shakeshaft, of Radcliffe, near Bury, had been in a road accident when he was found by a milkman on a grass verge last weekend.

Later, he was transferred to Lodge Moor spinal injuries unit at Sheffield, where his condition last night was described as serious.

Mr Shakeshaft, who had been to a local night club, was first taken to Bolton Royal Infirmary, where staff told police he was drunk and incapable and he was taken to a cell, said his father, Mr Frank Shakeshaft.

Mr Shakeshaft added: "There has been neglect somewhere, whether it be the police, the hospital or both. I have been told that his injuries could have been made worse by the way he was treated."

He said he had seen a policeman and ambulancemen drag his son under the arms, holding him by the seat of his pants, to an ambulance.

Police Sergeant Gerald Smith, aged 32, had a tempestuous affair with a woman police officer at his station, and became obsessively jealous of another sergeant, whom he imagined was his rival in love, Bristol Crown Court heard yesterday.

His temper snapped in a night of violence in which he fought naked with his lover, Mrs Louvaine Woolway, aged 24, and later stabbed her five times. Mr Smith was jailed for 18 months after admitting wounding with intent to cause grievous bodily harm. His plea of not guilty to attempting to murder her on April 10 at her home at Greenmeadow, Swindon, was accepted.

The Sergeant denied a charge of possessing a double-barrelled shotgun with intent to endanger life, and this was allowed to remain on the file.

Mr Michael Hubbard, prosecuting, said Mr Smith joined Wiltshire police in 1972, was promoted to sergeant in 1980, and was stationed in Swindon, where Mrs Woolway was a probationary WPC.

By May, 1981, they were sleeping together, but by that summer the sergeant described the relationship as "very stormy."

In October, Mrs Woolway separated from her husband and moved to Greenmeadow. About the same time Mr Smith wrote and told her: "I get frightened at the way my love for you has taken over my life."

So intense was his relationship with Mrs Woolway that he became obsessively jealous towards anyone he considered threatened it. Among these was a fellow sergeant, a bachelor living in the same road as Mrs Woolway.

There were bitter arguments and two incidents of violence in the weeks before the offence, and the other sergeant was receiving anonymous telephone calls. On April 9 Mr Smith decorated Mrs Woolway's flat, and they spent the evening with friends.

When they returned to Mrs Woolway's flat, an argument developed about the other officer. Smith was naked and Mrs Woolway in her nightclothes. They fought and the struggle took them into the kitchen where she picked up a knife.

Mr Smith struck Mrs Woolway to the ground with a chair. She claimed he said: "If I cannot have you no one else will." He stabbed her five times in the back. One wound, said Mr Hubbard, penetrated a lung.

Mr Roger Titheridge, QC, defending, said the affair was "very tempestuous." Mrs Woolway had admitted in a statement that she had a very strong temper and spoke of continually pressurising Sergeant Smith.

IF THERE WERE NO POLICE,
CRIME RATES WOULD DROP!

POLICE FILE SCRAPBOOK

More police solve less crime

Soldier raped woman, 83, boys in park? court told

The pounceman son of a retired rear admiral ruined his career and "blighted his life" when he made a false statement in a drink-driving case, it was said at the Old Bailey yesterday.

Peter Lucey, 23, of Oldways, Houghton, Sussex, was ordered to complete 200 hours of community service after he admitted attempting to pervert the course of justice.

Mr Lucey, son of Rear Admiral Martin Lucey, confessed to making a false witness statement when he gave evidence at Bow Street magistrates' court in September last year, said Mr Godfrey Carey, prosecuting, at an earlier hearing.

Mr Carey said that the motorist would have been convicted without Lucey's statement but, after the disclosure that it was false, the magistrate had no alternative but to dismiss the case.

Mr James Badenoch, defending, said that Mr Lucey frankly admitted the falsehood when challenged at the lower court and resigned from the police force.

A man with an impeccable record, when he entered the police force he had had a bright future.

Cleveland police committee yesterday prevented a newspaper from publishing details of a leaked confidential report about internal police disciplinary proceedings after being granted an injunction at the weekend by a High Court judge.

The injunction, served on the Middlesbrough Evening Gazette, stopped the publication of any facts, opinions or material arising from the report of an inquiry into police conduct by the Lancashire Chief Constable, Mr Albert Laugharne. The report had been leaked to the paper.

Mr Laugharne was called in early this year to investigate the way in which Cleveland police carried out an inquiry into the death of a Middlesbrough football fan, Craig French, who was stabbed near Ayresome Park football ground in 1980. Allegations that the initial inquiry was improperly handled had been made by a former Cleveland police superintendent.

Mr Justice Croom-Johnson, sitting in London, ordered the Evening Gazette not to make any copies of the leaked report or pass on information from it to other persons, bodies or publications. The paper was also ordered to return any copies of the report to the Cleveland Chief Constable, Mr Christopher Payne.

A spokesman for the police committee said publication of the report's findings might have interfered with its quasi-judicial duty, breached the confidentiality of witnesses and police informers, and prejudiced the operational activities of Cleveland police force.

Yesterday, the Evening Gazette's legal advisers were still studying the terms of the injunction, but the leaked report had not been surrendered. The editor, Mr David James, said: "It may well be as a result of this that we shall seek to have the injunction lifted—thus enabling us to report freely on matters we believe to be in the public interest."

It is the second time in six weeks that Cleveland police have successfully asked a judge to prevent publication of reports involving the force. Tyne Tees Television was banned from showing a documentary on alleged police corruption in September until it removed certain film sequences.

A hospital inquiry is under way to find out why a 19-year-old youth with a broken back was put in a police cell by officers who thought he was drunk.

But it was later learned that Mr Joseph Shakeshaft, of Radcliffe, near Bury, had been in a road accident when he was found by a milkman on a grass verge last weekend.

Later, he was transferred to Lodge Moor spinal injuries unit at Sheffield, where his condition last night was described as serious.

Mr Shakeshaft, who had been to a local night club, was first taken to Bolton Royal Infirmary, where staff told police he was drunk and incapable and he was taken to a cell, said his father, Mr Frank Shakeshaft.

Mr Shakeshaft added: "There has been neglect somewhere, whether it be the police, the hospital or both. I have been told that his injuries could have been made worse by the way he was treated."

He said he had seen a policeman and ambulance man drag his son under the arms, holding him by the seat of his pants, to an ambulance.

Police Sergeant Gerald Smith, aged 32, had a tempestuous affair with a woman police officer at his station, and became obsessively jealous of another sergeant, whom he imagined was his rival in love, Bristol Crown Court heard yesterday.

His temper snapped in a night of violence in which he fought naked with his lover, Mrs Louvaine Woolway, aged 24, and later stabbed her five times. Mr Smith was jailed for 18 months after admitting wounding with intent to cause grievous bodily harm. His plea of not guilty to attempting to murder her on April 10 at her home at Greenmeadow, Swindon, was accepted.

The Sergeant denied a charge of possessing a double-barrelled shotgun with intent to endanger life, and this was allowed to remain on the file.

Mr Michael Hubbard, prosecuting, said Mr Smith joined Wiltshire police in 1972, was promoted to sergeant in 1980, and was stationed in Swindon, where Mrs Woolway was a probationary WPC.

By May, 1981, they were sleeping together, but by that summer the sergeant described the relationship as "very stormy."

In October, Mrs Woolway separated from her husband and moved to Greenmeadow. About the same time Mr Smith wrote and told her: "I get frightened at the way my love for you has taken over my life."

So intense was his relationship with Mrs Woolway that he became obsessively jealous towards anyone he considered threatened it. Among these was a fellow sergeant, a bachelor living in the same road as Mrs Woolway.

There were bitter arguments and two incidents of violence in the weeks before the offence, and the other sergeant was receiving anonymous telephone calls. On April 9 Mr Smith decorated Mrs Woolway's flat, and they spent the evening with friends.

When they returned to Mrs Woolway's flat, an argument developed about the other officer. Smith was naked and Mrs Woolway in her nightclothes. They fought and the struggle took them into the kitchen where she picked up a knife.

Mr Smith struck Mrs Woolway to the ground with a chair. She claimed he said: "If I cannot have you no one else will." He stabbed her five times in the back. One wound, said Mr Hubbard, penetrated a lung.

Mr Roger Titheridge, QC, defending, said the affair was "very tempestuous." Mrs Woolway had admitted in a statement that she had a very strong temper and spoke of continually pressurising Sergeant Smith.

PC DAVID FORD, 40, "over-reacted" when he was hurt sorting out a disturbance outside an Indian restaurant. Mr Anthony Lake, 21, was arrested and charged with being drunk and disorderly, and at the police station Ford hit him three times, Manchester city magistrates were told yesterday.

Ford, of Buckingham Road, Chorlton, Manchester, was fined £100 with £25 costs after pleading guilty to assaulting Mr Lake causing him bodily harm in the early hours of New Year's Day.

The Stipendiary magistrate, Mr Derrick Fairclough, accepted that Ford had been provoked and that his self-restraint was affected. "But policemen should know they cannot be permitted to get their own back in the way you did, however great the temptation," he said.

Ford, a constable for 19 years, has been suspended on full pay since last February. He now awaits disciplinary action.

Sir David McNee, the retired Commissioner of the Metropolitan Police, is to join the board of Clydesdale Bank as a non-executive director with a salary of up to £5,000 a year. His role will be to attend board meetings twice a month.

Since leaving Scotland Yard at the beginning of this month, Sir David has been paid £120,000 for his memoirs in the Sunday Mirror and has been negotiating the sale of extracts from his autobiography to the Sunday Times.

A spokesman for Clydesdale Bank, a Scottish subsidiary of the Midland Bank, said Sir David had been offered a seat on the board because of his knowledge

IF THERE WERE
NO POLICE,
CRIME RATES WOULD DROP!

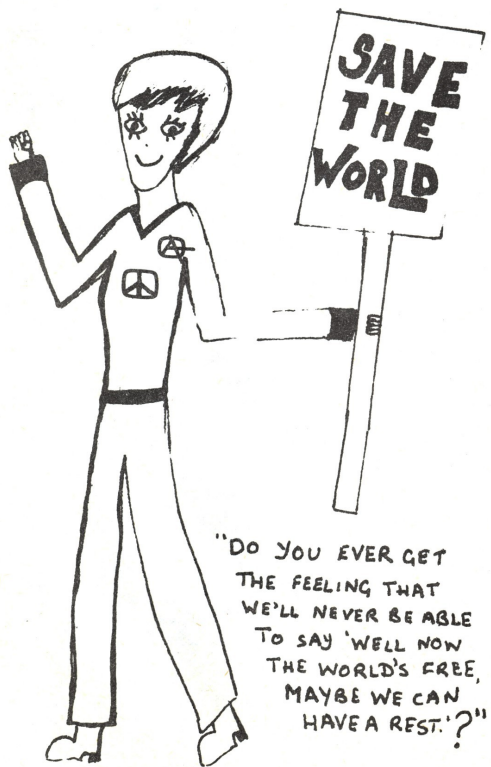

Witchery

Paganism is being fostered by the festival of Halloween. The Association of Christian Teachers warned parents about the danger of their children celebrating this pagan feast. "Parades of witches and mischievous 'tricking and treating' from door to door represents a reversal of moral values and the triumph of evil", state the loony tutors in an ACT pamphlet. The popularity of the heathen revel goes hand in hand with the growing popularity of the occult.

Church Times

"I do think the Government, who were elected on a law and order ticket, should now consider whether castration should not be a punishment available to all courts where violence has been used against people. Nobody is saying castrate people because they are nasty. But I am saying if you attack innocent people you should lose your manhood because you have ceased to behave like a man. Society has a right to protect itself against people who act violently. There seems to be no other deterrent available. Prison is too expensive and it's not stopping people mugging old ladies".

In these difficult times is it not good to see that in spite of the influx of trendy Bobs, the church is returning to older values? This extract (excrement?) was written by the rev Andrew Deakes-Williams, in the parish magazine of the Holt Trinity Church, Oswestry, Salop, and it is appropriately called 'Christian Spirit': "

IF THIS GOVERNMENT'S EMPLOYMENT LAW WAS IN FORCE IN POLAND, THERE WOULD ONLY HAVE BEEN SIX PICKETS IN THE GDANSK SHIPYARD.

Victory for non voters!

In the recent by elections apparently won by the Labour party, the majority have not been represented.

In Peckham the winning candidate got only 36.265% of the vote, but only 20.163% of all the electors voted for the so called winning candidate, whereas 44.4% didn't vote at all.

In Northfield the 'winner' may have got over half the votes with 50.43% of the voters opting for that appropriate box, but when you consider that, that was only 19.163% of all those who could have voted, and 62% didn't vote it was a very poor victory.

IF THIS COUNTRY WAS A DEMOCRACY. BOTH OF THESE SEATS WOULD STAY EMPTY. ALONG WITH THE OTHER 633 OF THEM.

BRISTOL DEMO

What did you think of the Animal Rights demonstration at Bristol? A bit violent all them 'Animal Lovers' attacking the police who were just doing their jobs? Stopping all the Saturday shoppers going about their business by staging a mass sit down?

Well to start with it was a perfectly peaceful march up to the university, but the powers that be decided in all their 'wisdom' to reroute the path of the march to totally avoid the university, to make sure we did not pass the object of our hate.

Several hundred police were drafted in to block the original route. Short of a mass confrontation with the police, some of which were on horses, we decided to hold a sit down to express our disapproval of the route change. This was not an anti-police demo, people were not struggling with the police for the sake of it, but because they were being dragged off in no uncertain terms. In all 43 people were arrested and dragged to waiting police vans.

The people of Bristol must have thought that they were in for a riot because of the number of police. Present that Saturday, even the marchers were surprised that we needed so much protection, and as one marcher near to me said "it's good to know we have got them so worried".

Did you know what was going on behind the locked doors of Bristol University before the demonstration? Do you know now? If you do then maybe the arrests were worth while, and maybe you will be moved to act against the states protection of the money spinning animal murderers.

We believe in one God, the Pentagon, the Almighty, Destroyer of Heaven & Earth, Of All that is Seen and Unseen....

We believe in one Lord, the Bomb
the only son of the Pentagon, continually begotten of the Pentagon,
Bomb from Bomb, Flash from Flash, True war from True war, profitable, not sane, one in being with the Pentagon.
For us and for our cremation
the Bomb came down from heaven:
by the power of the multi-nationals
the Bomb was born of fear and became death.

For our sake the Bomb was exploded over Hiroshima
Where people still suffer, die and are buried.
On the third day it was exploded again in fulfillment of a war game;
its mushroom cloud ascended into heaven and its fallout is seated at the right hand of all people.

The Bomb will come again in gore to vaporize the living and the dead and its devastation will have no end.

We believe in the threat of the Bomb, the taker of life, which proceeds from the Pentagon and its contractors.
With the Pentagon and its generals the Bomb is worshipped and glorified.
It has spoken through the Joint Chiefs.

We believe in one Holy anti-soviet and apocalyptic foreign policy.
We acknowledge multiple pre-emptive strikes for the forgiveness of socialism.
We look for the resurrection of the Right, and the death of the world as we know it.
Boom.

John M LaForge

tightrope walker

Lech Walesa the recently released Solidarity 'leader' is reported to have said that feels "like a man let out on a tightrope ..."

From a tightrope you can do one of three things, stay on or fall to the left or right. If Walesa manages to stay on his present course, neither offending or aiding the fascist government of Poland, not only will it be a pointless political exercise, benifitting nobody but the status quo, it will be a political mirical.

One of the ways he could fall is into the laps of the military and party machinary, by becoming involved in the 'authorities' new union organisation. This is obviously what he has been groomed, fattened and released for and if he rejects this he will be a far better person than the union scabs of East and West.

The other alternative is for him to get involved in the struggle against the red fascists of Poland, but Walesa was never noted for his radicalism (although a militant) but may be his months of imprisonment and the fact that the Polish state used the full force of its powers to suppress 'Solidarity' has altered his attitude towards gaining reforms from the present system.

But what ever position Walesa takes it will not alter the fact that the struggle against the Polish 'authorities is going on and is to be supported as are all struggles for freedom wherever they are fought.

military democracy

Still believe that we are a democracy? Well i'm sorry to shatter your illusions but this country is run by and for the military.

Proof? Look at the land which the military has requisitioned from the National Trust to build a huge bunker for themselves. Look at the treatment that the women at Greenham Common have recieved for protesting against weapons of mass genocide. Look at the way that the government are strengthening Civil Defence legislation to conscript local workers into complying with their 'exercises', and enforcing councils to spend more money on civil defence (sic).
As far as i can see the only way we can have civil defence is to abolish the military. Look at the jingoistic claptrap of the Falklands War and how opposition was censored in the media. Look at the amount spent on defence and the amount spent on health care.

This is just a tiny fraction of the proof. Don't believe what they tell you. Question everything, even this article!

-----And Jesus appeared afore the multitude and he sayeth unto them, "Blessed are the Nukes". This sorely troubled them since nobody knew what a "Nuke" was.

Mark ch V v 1X

law & order brigade

Heard about the Northern Crown Court Judge who was convinced that his wife was possessed by the devil? He has been described as 'mentally unbalanced' by a fellow judge! Aren't they all, you may well ask.

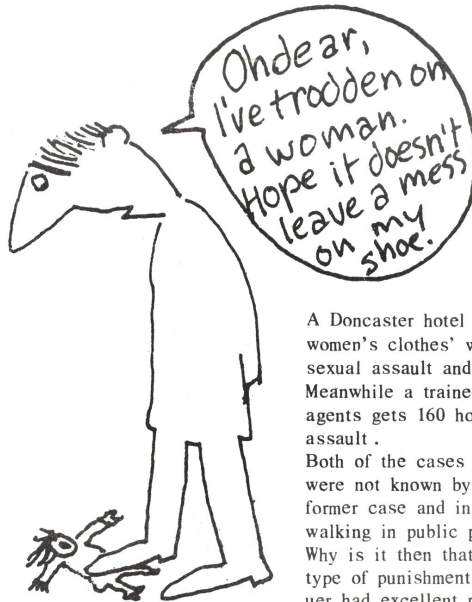

Judge Francis Radcliffe, a Recorder in Sheffield (no not the musical kind!) was divorced by his wife on the grounds of 'unreasonable behaviour'. It was disclosed that during their thirteen year marriage the judge, a Roman Catholic, had blacked his wife's eye, hit her and cut her lip, squeezed her so hard she had suspected cracked ribs, and after a visit to a psychiatrist he had driven them home at a dangerous speed, telling her that they were both possessed by the devil, he thought, and should both go together! When informed that he was a manic-depressive he told the doctors that there could be nothing wrong with him as he was a judge.

In 1979 he stood as a candidate at the General Election on an anti-abortion platform, polling 569 votes. He described his York Christian Party (he had been turned down as a prospective Tory candidate) as "ethical and political" and said the Pope was instructing all good Christians to go into politics.

Imagine, this person was presiding over court cases, was passing sentence on people, and no doubt giving them harsh punishments. We await the outcome of the enquiry into him. We expect that he will be 'elevated' into the House of Lords.

fight
back

Bassetlaw mp Joe Ashton on how to deal with 'bossy'
women

"They've never been fancied---All you have to do is smile and blow her a kiss and then one day, preferably in front of a crowd of women, just get behind her, put both hands on her bum and say in a deep guttural voice 'oooooooo - you're an exciting woman Bertha'. They love it --- next thing you know they'll be slipping you home-made cake and a packet of foreign fags----"

If he ever tries this stunt on a woman, may I suggest she gives him a mighty kick in his balls.

MIDDLE CRAP

The Minister of Mersyside, Mr Heseltine, has come up with the solution to the problems of areas such as Toxteth. No, it isn't jobs, housing, schools, hospitals, nothing as commonplace as that. The miracle cure for fifty years of neglect, was revealed at a meeting of the Mersyside Police Federation, is, wait for it, hold on to your seats, the creation of a black middle class. Little boy blue, when referring to the experience of Americans after their own inner-city riots, stated "They came to the conclusion that their priority was to create a black middle class, with attitudes and characteristics of the white middle classes." Well, there you have it. The fabrication of such a 'buffer' between the masters and the slave classes, is of course, standard Tory practice. By giving the sans-culottes the goal of middle class respectability they are conned into believing that the system actually works. In short, the workers will be so busy trying to climb aboard the middle class gravy train they will not notice who's driving, the capitalists. Black middle class, white middle class, chinese middle class - there are only two classes - the exploited and the exploiter.

Well, you said
'beat up two eggs.'

spot the difference!

A Doncaster hotel porter with a 'penchant for wearing women's clothes' was jailed for four years for the sexual assault and attempted rape of three women. Meanwhile a trainee valuer with a firm of estate agents gets 160 hours community service for sexual assault.

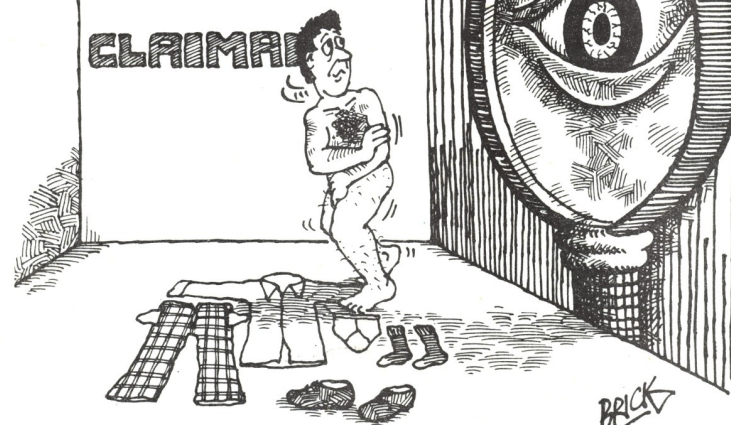

Both of the cases were similar in that the victims were not known by the attackers and in two of the former case and in the latter case the women were walking in public places.

Why is it then that there is a vast difference in the type of punishments dished out? Well the trainee valuer had excellent references, the assault was quite out of character and as the judge said referring to the attacker not the victim, "I'm told, and I hope this is right, that you have had a very bad fright."

Not only did the trainee valuer have all the advantages of a middle class job, coming from a respectable family etc, the judge put blame on the victim, the usual negligence rubbish, saying "The law protects and it must be seen to protect, those who might seem to be foolish."

1984
NOW!

CLAIMANT

The Civil Service unions are to step up their campaign against the specialist claims control teams, the 'fraud squad' investigators who intimidate claimants into dropping their claims.

The unions say that the teams, which move from one office to another combing files to seek out 'suitable cases', treat people as guilty until proven innocent.

The teams are particularly fond of intimidating 'unmarried mothers and workers with skills which could be used for moonlighting'. They work to make certain savings and inflate the savings that they actually make, in some areas they go as far as to make up instances where benefit claims are supposed to have been dropped.

Perhaps the unions could suggest that the teams be re-employed seeking out those who are not receiving sufficient benefit, this shouldn't be too hard as there are plenty about, or alternatively bringing tax dodgers, in the multi-million pound bracket, to court.

M.C.Ps. live unfortunately

Hear about the Castleford miner who wouldn't let his wife go to Spain on a works outing? Seems he wasn't willing to go without his Sunday dinner! Stupid imbecile was incapable of making it himself!

This just goes to show how the glorification of the working classes by certain factions, is misplaced. There needs to be a consciousness before people are capable of releasing themselves into revolutionary awareness. Our only hope in this case would have been for the woman to tell him to do it himself and then of gone. She didn't. She too is enslaved not only by society but also her husband. But this is nothing new.

In memory of Marrie Louise Berneri.
Into the silence of the sun
Risen in dust the rose is gone,
The blood that burned along the briar
Branches invisibly on the air.
Flame into flame's petal
Her grief extends our grief,
Over the ashy heat-ways
A green glance from a leaf
Shivers the settled trees.
A child walks in her grace
The light glows on his face,
Where the great rose has burned away Within the terrible silence of the day.

Ominous Graffiti

It appears that someone has been graffiti-ing on a school in South Elmsall. The slogan apparently says 'You don't need permission to do anything.' followed by an A in a circle. The head of the school has been led to believe that this symbol is an anarchist one, and she believes that it is a mature person trying to influence the young people there.

She has asked for help in seeking out the offender. The slogan was written in blue, and she asks if anyone knows someone with a blue aerosol you are to let her know! What we want to know is who was the vandal who built a wall there in the first place?

AAGGHH!!

Quote of the month: "Peace can only be upheld if we rely on the invincible might of the Soviet armed forces."
Yuri Andropov - General Secretary of the Soviet Communist Party.

"---- we maintain that state communism (marxism), which is authoritarian and imposed, is the most hateful tyranny that has ever afflicted, tormented and handicapped mankind."
Errico Malatesta.
